PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Alumni,

I am pleased to introduce this first edition of an alumni directory for Augusta State University. It's particularly appropriate that the first printing comes at this time, for we are just entering a celebration of our 75th anniversary. For 75 years, this institution has produced alumni who have brought pride to their alma mater by achieving success in their civic, professional, or personal lives.

You may have attended the Junior College of Augusta, Augusta College, or Augusta State University, but you share a common bond—through the years and through the name changes—you are alumni of Augusta State University.

As is too often the case, though, we sometimes lose contact with our alma mater and with our friends from school. That's why printing this directory is important to the alumni association. We don't want you to lose track of each other or of us. We urge you to stay in contact with the alumni association. Great things are happening at Augusta State, and we want to keep you informed.

We also want you to visit. This year the university will be hosting many events to celebrate its 75th anniversary, and we hope that you will be able to join us at some of them. When on campus, you may want to see the new 122,000-square-foot Science Building, the adjoining construction site of the $14 million classroom building, and the newly renovated Maxwell Alumni House.

We also hope you enjoy reading about your friends in this directory. Go one step further, though – take the time to call a classmate you haven't seen in years.

Sincerely,

Bill Bloodworth

William A. Bloodworth, Jr.

ASU AT-A-GLANCE

Campus: The 70-acre main campus on Walton Way is undergoing an ambitious building program, which is virtually changing the face of the university. A new $19.4-million Science Building has been constructed, and construction is underway behind Bellevue Hall on the first of two planned classroom buildings that will be approximately the same size as the science building. The second classroom complex will be located behind Reese Library on the Walton Way side of campus. When the two buildings are completed, the six current academic classroom buildings will be demolished. In their place will be a seven-acre grassy commons.

New $19.4-million Science Building

The 244-acre Forest Hills campus continues to serve the fitness and athletic needs of campus with playing fields, an indoor track, 3800 seat arena, the 18-hole Forest Hills Golf Course, and classrooms and faculty offices for the Department of Kinesiology and Health Science.

Enrollment: Over 5,000 students hail from about 33 states and 54 countries; approximately 65 percent are female, 37 percent, male; and 19 percent are African-American. Average age of an undergraduate is 25; a graduate student, 34.

Faculty and Staff: Approximately 70 percent of ASU's 197 faculty members hold doctorates. The student faculty ratio is 17:1. The number of staff totals 508 full-time and 113 part-time employees.

Programs: More than 50 majors lead to associate, bachelor, master, and specialist degrees. A cooperative doctoral degree in education leadership is also offered on the ASU campus by Georgia Southern.

Athletics: NCAA Division II in men's baseball, basketball, cross-country, soccer and tennis; and women's basketball, cross-country, softball, volleyball and tennis; Division I in men's golf. Intercollegiate competition in table tennis (six-time national team champions) and rowing as well as a campus intramural program. Member of the Peach Belt Athletic Conference.

Student Organizations: 48 student organizations including social and professional clubs, sororities and fraternities, and honor societies, as well as student publications and government.

Accreditation: Augusta State University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097: Telephone number 404-679-4501) to award associate, bachelor, master, and specialist degrees. Additional program accreditations include the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, the National League of Nursing, the National Association of Schools of Music, and the International Association for Management Education.

Continuing Education: ASU offers a variety of short courses, workshops, seminars, and conferences for the public on topics ranging from computers to swimming to genealogy. About 9,000 area residents annually take advantage of classes, workshops, and seminars for professional and self-development.

Alumni: Augusta State University (Augusta College and Junior College of Augusta) counts more than 15,000 alumni—many who remain in the Augusta area.

ASU FIRSTS

... first public academy in Georgia

ASU's parent institution, the Academy of Richmond County, was created by the state legislature in 1783.

... first institution in the University System

The University System was established in 1785— the first in the United States— which established a state college as well as public academies. The Academy was the only public academy in the state in 1785.

... first institution in the state to be visited by the first president

President George Washington sat in on students' oral examinations at the Academy in 1791.

... first federal arsenal established to defend states against invasion

Fort Augusta was established in 1735 by General Oglethorpe; and sometime in the late 1700s it became a federal arsenal. It relocated in 1826 to what is now the site of Augusta State.

... first "classical" program in the state

Academy courses for the Classical Department

1st year - Latin Grammar and Readers, Cornelius Nepos Boston Edi without translation, geography, pensmanship, arithmetic; 2nd year - Caesar's Commentaries, Select K'Profanis, Introduction to the making of Latin, Sallust, Cicero's select (7) Orations, Greek Grammar; 3rd year - Greek Reader, Virgin, Ceciero de Anicitia and Senecdute, Xerophon's Cypernedia, algebra, Roman Antiquities; 4th year - Horace, Cicero de Oratore, Homer's Iliad (4 books), geometry, trigonometry. Declaratory exercises every year with delivery of original theses.

... first institution to hold joint sessions with the Medical College of Georgia circa 1870 - The academy's regent, George Washington Rains, also taught chemistry and physics at MCG, located next door, which Academy students attended.

... first public junior college in the state

Another year of study was added to the Academy's fifth year, which was then formalized into the Junior College of Augusta—the new college remained housed with the Academy.

... first public college to take over a military installation

The Augusta Arsenal was abandoned in 1955, and after slight renovation, the junior college began occupying the site in 1957.

... first Eminent Scholar program in a University System senior college.

An eminent scholar in art was named in 1988 through a gift from William S. Morris III.

... first computer science program in the University System

Computer science was offered as a major at Augusta College in 1980.

... first announcement of the national HOPE scholarship program

President Bill Clinton used Georgia's HOPE Scholarship program as a model for the National HOPE Scholarship, which he announced in 1997 from the campus of Augusta State.

... first college professor to earn national teacher accreditation

Holly Thornton, assistant professor of education, earned national certification in 1999 and became the first college professor in the nation to do so.

A HISTORY OF ASU

Augusta State University has an official founding date of 1925, however, its roots go back much further. In fact, there are two roots equally rich in history: one is its physical facilities and the other is its academic tradition.

The institution can be traced to 1783 when the Academy of Richmond County (ARC) was chartered. It opened in 1785 and offered college-level classes to prepare students for sophomore or junior standing at universities in early America. Legislation that same year established a state college (now the University of Georgia) and a university system that included ARC as a feeder institution. This system of public university education was the first to be established in the United States.

The classes were formalized into a formal year of study in 1910, and another year was added in 1925 to form the Junior College of Augusta. It remained housed with the Academy until 1957 when it moved to the current Walton Way site, following the closure of the Augusta Arsenal. Here, its rich academic tradition blends with that of the old arsenal, which is as equally rich.

Originally, the U. S. Arsenal was located at the Savannah River. An epidemic swept the arsenal in 1821, killing everyone except a lieutenant on leave and Capt. Matthew M. Payne, who recovered at the summer home of U.S. Senator Freeman Walker. Payne recommended the arsenal be moved to the higher, healthier land of the Walker estate, and in 1826 Congress authorized the purchase.

Construction began in 1827 with a $49,900 appropriation to construct four buildings enclosed with a loop-holed wall (for added defense).

Almost immediately, the arsenal began supplying arms for the Georgia militia and the federal government. It continued its mission through the Civil War and two world wars. Activities slowed considerably after World War II and in the early 1950s, consideration was given to closing the arsenal. When the Augusta Arsenal was abandoned in 1955, it was donated to Richmond County to be used for educational purposes.

The Junior College of Augusta moved to the former arsenal in 1957, and the following year it became Augusta College (still a two-year institution). In 1963 it became a four-year college, and then in 1996 following a University System of Georgia name change for most four-year colleges, Augusta College became Augusta State University. Century-old oaks and magnolias, fine old millwork, elegant windows, and high-ceilinged buildings retain the beauty of the past. A dynamic curriculum, new technology, and state of the arts buildings reflect Augusta State's commitment to the future. This blend of historical and contemporary is what makes Augusta State so unique among universities in the state.

Directory Information

The biographical information contained in this directory was compiled in the following manner:

- a) Augusta State University provided the publisher with the most recent information contained in its files at the time the project commenced;
- b) Publisher attempted to update the address and telephone number information through third party research vendors with which it had executed confidentiality agreements; and
- c) Publisher made every reasonable attempt to verify the biographical information via direct contact with each individual via mail and/or telephone. During telephone contact, updates given by immediate family members may have been applied as well.

If attempts to verify the information directly with individuals were unsuccessful, the information originally provided by Augusta State University was utilized, with any address or telephone number updates obtained through research applied. We apologize in advance for any errors and omissions and we urge you to send corrected information regarding your listing to:
